 Fine Old Violins Constantly on Hand. New York

The College of St. Elizabeth, which is at Convent station, near Morristown, N. J., is a Catholic institution for the higher education of women. In addition to the college, there is a school of pedagogy, a school of music and an academy with a high school course, full college preparatory work and grammar and primary departments separate. The institution is registered by the New Jersey State Board of Education and the University of the State of New York.
 Trinity School begins its 202d year at No. 139 to 147 West 91st street. The school prepares for all colleges and scientific schools. There are three departments, the primary, grammar and high school, each with a course of four years. There is a fine gymnasium. The Rev. Dr. Lawrence T. Cole is rector.

The Barnard School of Household Arts, at No. 226 West 79th street, is specially intended for girls who do not go to college. The school, which is under the same management as the Barnard School for Boys and the Barnard School for Girls, offers courses in cooking, embroidery, millinery, dressmaking, household decoration, household management and accounts. The student may elect any or all of these courses.

Friends' Seminary, at No. 220 to 228 East 16th street, and the Friends' School, at No. 110 to 118 Schermerhorn street, Brooklyn, have kindergarten and preparatory courses for girls and boys. Individual instruction is a feature. Regular courses include languages, music, art and manual training. There are large playgrounds. The schools are non-sectarian.
